

Is collective impact the right approach for you? (Part 1)

<https://collectiveimpactforum.org/resources/collective-impact-right-approach-you>

Content: How do you know if collective impact is right for your organisation? While collective impact has a track record of success against a range of social and environmental issues, not all issues lend themselves to this approach, and it is important that there are the right conditions in place for a collective impact effort to succeed. In this webinar, you'll learn: the foundations of the collective impact approach, to identify the pre-conditions that enable collective impact efforts to succeed, how to determine whether collective impact is appropriate for your issue and local context.

Presenting Organisation: Collective Impact Forum

The Collective Impact Forum exists to support the efforts of those who are practicing collective impact in the field. While the rewards of collective impact can be great, the work is often demanding. Those who practice it must keep themselves and their teams motivated and moving forward. The Collective Impact Forum is the place to find the tools and training that can help achieve success. It's an expanding network of like-minded individuals coming together from across sectors to share useful experience and knowledge and thereby accelerating the effectiveness, and further adoption, of the collective impact approach as a whole.

Presenter/s: Fay Hanleybrown, FSG
Adnas Kanyagia, FSG
Sujatha Jesudason, CoreAlign

Date: 06-Oct-2015

Related Resources:

<https://collectiveimpactforum.org/sites/default/files/Is%20Collective%20Impact%20Right%20for%20You%20-%20Presentation.pdf>

Setting the scene for collective impact (Part 2)

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/resources/setting-scene-collective-impact>

Content: Once you have determined that you are ready for collective impact, how do you get started? Join FSG consultants and partner practitioners as they walk you through the initial set-up of an initiative. In this webinar, you'll learn: how to identify champions and form a cross-sector group, how to map the landscape and use data to define the problem and make the case for change, how to include the voices of community members.

Presenting Organisation: Collective Impact Forum

The Collective Impact Forum exists to support the efforts of those who are practicing collective impact in the field. While the rewards of collective impact can be great, the work is often demanding. Those who practice it must keep themselves and their teams motivated and moving forward. The Collective Impact Forum is the place to find the tools and training that can help achieve success. It's an expanding network of like-minded individuals coming together from across sectors to share useful experience and knowledge and thereby accelerating the effectiveness, and further adoption, of the collective impact approach as a whole.

Presenter/s: John Kania, FSG
Erin White, FSG
Cheryl McCarver, Health and Wellness Alliance for Children

Date: 20-Oct-2015

Related Resources:

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/sites/default/files/Setting%20the%20Scene%20for%20Collective%20Impact%20presentation.pdf>

Collaborating to create a common agenda (Part 3)

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/resources/collaborating-create-common-agenda>

Content: With so many different stakeholders at the table, coming to consensus over the key issues and how to approach them can seem like a daunting task. In this webinar, you'll learn: how to get to a common understanding of the problem being addressed — what is in? what is out?, how to conduct research and identify potential indicators for progress, how to establish ownership and buy-in from key stakeholders and implementers.

Presenting Organisation: Collective Impact Forum

The Collective Impact Forum exists to support the efforts of those who are practicing collective impact in the field. While the rewards of collective impact can be great, the work is often demanding. Those who practice it must keep themselves and their teams motivated and moving forward. The Collective Impact Forum is the place to find the tools and training that can help achieve success. It's an expanding network of like-minded individuals coming together from across sectors to share useful experience and knowledge and thereby accelerating the effectiveness, and further adoption, of the collective impact approach as a whole.

Presenter/s: Adrienne Abbate, Staten Island Partnership for Community Wellness
John Kania, FSG
Abigail Stevenson, FSG

Date: 03-Nov-2015

Related Resources:

http://collectiveimpactforum.org/sites/default/files/Collaborating%20to%20Create%20a%20Common%20Agenda%20handout\_0.pdf

How to integrate continuous learning into collective impact

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/resources/how-integrate-continuous-learning-collective-impact>

Content: While many leaders understand the importance of continuous learning, more could be done to help funders, backbone leaders, and other community partners integrate continuous learning into their collective impact initiatives. This webinar will explore how to develop learning priorities that are co-created and agreed upon, learning plans that determine the set of processes and activities required to create a continuous cycle of dialogue and reflection, and a learning culture that allows for openness, trust, and risk-taking.

Webinar attendees will explore how to facilitate learning conversations and will hear from a place-based funder about how they modeled learning processes with their collective impact partners.

Presenting Organisation: Collective Impact Forum

The Collective Impact Forum exists to support the efforts of those who are practicing collective impact in the field. While the rewards of collective impact can be great, the work is often demanding. Those who practice it must keep themselves and their teams motivated and moving forward. The Collective Impact Forum is the place to find the tools and training that can help achieve success. It's an expanding network of like-minded individuals coming together from across sectors to share useful experience and knowledge and thereby accelerating the effectiveness, and further adoption, of the collective impact approach as a whole.

Presenter/s: Efrain Gutierrez – FSG
Hallie Preskill – FSG
Shiloh Turner – Greater Cincinnati Foundation

Date: 01-Dec-2016

Related Resources:

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/sites/default/files/Continuous%20Learning%20for%20Collective%20Impact%20presentation.pdf>

The what, the why, and the how of building capacity for collective impact

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/resources/what-why-and-how-building-capacity-collective-impact>

Content: Building capacity for collective impact is critical for funders, backbone leaders, and others working together to address complex social problems in communities. Among the most important capacities are system leadership, data sharing and analysis, community engagement, and more. Drawing from the learnings from the Rider-Pool Foundation's Collective Impact Fellowship—an intensive, place-based collective impact leadership development program—this webinar delves into the most critical capacities needed in collective impact. What capacities should you prioritize, why is capacity building important, and how should you most effectively support capacity building in collective impact?

Presenting Organisation: Collective Impact Forum

The Collective Impact Forum exists to support the efforts of those who are practicing collective impact in the field. While the rewards of collective impact can be great, the work is often demanding. Those who practice it must keep themselves and their teams motivated and moving forward. The Collective Impact Forum is the place to find the tools and training that can help achieve success. It's an expanding network of like-minded individuals coming together from across sectors to share useful experience and knowledge and thereby accelerating the effectiveness, and further adoption, of the collective impact approach as a whole.

Presenter/s: Christine Carpino - Rider-Pool Foundation
Ron Dendas - Rider-Pool Foundation

Date: 01-Nov-2016

Related Resources:

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/sites/default/files/Building%20Capacity%20for%20Collective%20Impact%20presentation.pdf>

Lessons from 500+ cross-sector partnerships

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/resources/lessons-500-cross-sector-partnerships>

Content: This webinar identifies the challenges most cross-sector partnerships face, and explores cross-sector case studies to help you improve your own work. Structuring and managing a cross-sector partnership can be one of the hardest parts of collective impact. Using data collected from Living Cities' Cross-Sector Partnership Assessment, this webinar presented on the biggest trends in cross-sector partnerships and collective impact today. We discussed common challenges most cross-sector partnerships face, and explored a cross-sector case study Seattle/King County.

Presenting Organisation: Collective Impact Forum

The Collective Impact Forum exists to support the efforts of those who are practicing collective impact in the field. While the rewards of collective impact can be great, the work is often demanding. Those who practice it must keep themselves and their teams motivated and moving forward. The Collective Impact Forum is the place to find the tools and training that can help achieve success. It's an expanding network of like-minded individuals coming together from across sectors to share useful experience and knowledge and thereby accelerating the effectiveness, and further adoption, of the collective impact approach as a whole.

Presenter/s: Cheryl Markham, King County Dept of Community & Human Services
Jeff Raderstrong, Living Cities
Kirsten Wysen, MHSA, Communities of Opportunity, Public Health- Seattle & King County

Date: 16-Mar-2016

Related Resources:

<http://collectiveimpactforum.org/sites/default/files/Lessons%20from%20500%2B%20Cross-Sector%20Partnerships.pdf>

Breaking the silos

<http://www.tamarackcommunity.ca/library/breaking-the-silos>

Content: The presenters explore the importance of disrupting what separates us in order to work together to understand and address the interconnections of the issues and challenges that are owned by all of us.

Presenting Organisation: Tamarack Institute

Tamarack Institute was created to understand community change and help organisations and citizens work better together for a collective impact. A learning centre has been established to provide research and document real stories, exemplary practice and effective applications for community change. The Institute also applies what is learnt to end poverty.

Presenter/s: Severn Cullis-Suzuki
Mark Holmgren

Date: 05-Aug-2016

The art of disruption

<http://www.tamarackcommunity.ca/library/the-art-of-disruption>

Content: The presenters discuss the emerging ideas and strategies that are disrupting how communities are responding to the complex issues they face. Communities are fluid and dynamic places. Increasingly, we recognize that the old ways of working are not achieving the impacts desired. We are seeing negative trends in many communities on issues like poverty, homelessness, obesity and teen suicide. How do we disrupt these patterns? What is the leadership needed to truly transform our communities and drive change forward?

Presenting Organisation: Tamarack Institute

Tamarack Institute was created to understand community change and help organisations and citizens work better together for a collective impact. A learning centre has been established to provide research and document real stories, exemplary practice and effective applications for community change. The Institute also applies what is learnt to end poverty.

Presenter/s: Paul Born
Liz Weaver

Date: 22-Jul-2016

New Zealand's cultural context - Modules 1 to 4

<http://ethniccommunities.govt.nz/story/intercultural-capability>

Content: Intercultural Capability - New Zealand is a diverse country with over 200 different ethnicities. The Office of Ethnic Communities is committed to promoting the benefits of ethnic diversity and offers an Intercultural Capability eLearning programme to support this. This introductory programme is aimed at increasing anyone's understanding to better interact or communicate with people from different backgrounds. The programme is made up of four modules and focuses on understanding what culture is, how it impacts on communication and behavior and provides tools and methods for improving people's ability to communicate effectively across cultural boundaries.

Presenting Organisation: ethniccommunities.govt.nz

The Office of Ethnic Communities is the government's authoritative advisor on ethnic diversity in New Zealand. They also provide information, advice and services to, and for, ethnic communities in New Zealand and administer funds to support community development and social cohesion.

Date: 12-Feb-2016